

Aug 6/95

My dear sir:

Many thanks for your note, of the matter of which I would not otherwise have known.

Progress may be slow at first, but have no fear that the great truth can ever be hidden again. It is making such steady progress in the English speaking countries that it must force its way over the world.

Pi & Margall cannot move to far in advance of his countrymen, but if God give him life, he may soon become less timid. What we have at heart is too great a thing to come easily, but it is certain to come. If you and I never see it we will at least have helped it.

Yours sincerely,

Henry George

I am unflinching steady on my political economy.
working