

AGNES GEORGE DE MILLE
25 EAST 9TH STREET
NEW YORK, N. Y. 10003

Feb 13

Dear Bob-

I'm off to Mexico in the morning - I've dreamed much - a treasure trove of daguerotypes, and my mother's doll clothes, made by her mother, Annie Fox. These should be stored with tissue papers & exhibited - They are perfect examples of style in the eighties They were for the doll Rose who was carried with a broken head to a doll hospital in London from Dublin wrapped in cottonband paper concerning the Phoenix Park murders. Alas, my mother's baby shoes, and little kid boots she wore as a teenager - also a dress either belonging to her. George or made over from Sick belonging to her. They are all quaint objects - and I think the birthplace could house them - my French cook Pauline Vernet will bring them up - she speaks virtually no English - a beaut

Agn