President,
Henry George Institute
Room 462-A

New York, N.Y. 10036

Dear Bob:

I hope you didn't think I meant to denigrate your bank balance or your organization. I was merely pointing out that our institutional response need not be limited by your resources. Somehow, I am a lot less nervous about what the California folks are hatching for next summer than some other people here seem to be. But I am all for anyone with good ideas being able to present them. What I shall oppose are those with no ideas of their own who simply arrogate themselves the veto power over the efforts of others. This goes for "sponsors" like us, or anyone else.

Maybe we ought to share more than just correspondence. Come by for a drink or whatever at your convenience soon. Look forward to seeing you.

Sincerely,

Philip Finkelstein,
Director
