A FISH COURSE IN ECONOMICS

In appreciation of the lectures delivered at the Henry George School in 1950 and 1951 by

Professor Harry Gunnison Brown

Although he's from Missouri
Of this there is no doubt,
In the realm of economics
He knows his way about.

Suppose you are a fisherman
And want to make a boat --
Professor Brown will show you how
If you'll read what he wrote.

You'll have to lay by CAPITAL
To consummate your wish,
Which must come out of WAGES;
Yet both consist of FISH!

And while those fish were caught at sea,
You still must understand,
They're also ECONOMIC RENT,
As they were part of LAND!

And thus, while in the movies,
"A kiss is just a kiss,"
Professor Brown has taught us
A FISH AIN'T JUST A FISH!

And so we hasten on to say,
Regardless of all FISHES,
He's given us a splendid course,
And we give him BEST WISHES.
