Dear Sir,

I have taken the liberty of sending you through The Public two pamphlets on "The Economic Solution of the European Crisis" and "International Morality and Exchange".

I have done so because, after having heard you some time ago, at the Single Tax dinner, and ^{having} read you to day in The Public on "Appeals to Love and Hate" I very much wish, and would be interested to lest your criticism of those two little things of mine.

Pardon the liberty I take and believe me, dear Sir,

Very sincerely yours

Henry Lambart
