

John S. Codhan

John Codman Dies, Retired Economist, 91

Tehn Surgis Comman, 31, retised manufacturer and economist, cled yesterday at his home, 191 Caestaut St., Beacon Hill.

He was active for many years in the fields of civil rights and antivivisection.

WARVARD, MIT GRADUATE

Mr. Cotiman was born in Boston and attended Noble's School. He was graduated from Harvard College in 1880 and from Massacinusetts Institute of Technology in 1882.

Moras treasurer of the Faprinciple Co. Liston, from his resignation in 1963. Nad bee lighter in the Barningtii, engineering Listed mans our scientific

Mr. Codenar also wrote extenderly on economics and in 1828 was co-founder of the Beston emission of the Henry George dent and pressurer of the New School of Social Science, New England Anti-Vivisection Society. For He burght in the Beston During World Wer I Mr. Codman School for many years.

He was an existed manufer of set Fund in Boston and his port that cause earned him a declaration a former member of the oration from the Beigism governments and the leaves a daughter, Mrs. Committee of Massachusetts.

Committee of Massachusetts.

He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Benjamin M. Elkis, and a sister. Mrs. Redington Fiske, both of

He also had served as vice area. Hoston.

John S. Codman

John Sturgis Codman, who passed on in Boston Sept. 8, was cofounder of the Boston extension of the Henry George School of Social Science, and a leader in the field of economics.

A native of Boston, he was graduated from Noble's School in 1886, Harvard College in 1890, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1893.

Mr. Codman was decorated by the Belgium Government for his work as manager of the Belgian Relief Fund in Boston during World War I and was one of the original members of the American Civil Liberties Union in 1920. For several years he served as an administrator of the New England Anti-Vivisection Society.

BOSTON GLOSE Sept 9 8 8, 1959 1959

Deaths and

John Codman

Co-Founder in Boston Of Henry George School

John Sturgis Codman, 91, of 101 Chestnut st., Beacon Hill, co-founder of the Boston extension of the Henry George School of Social Science, and well-known in the field of economics, died yesterdsy at his home.

Born in Boston, he was a graduate of Noble's School in 1886, Harvard College, class of 1890, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1893.

During his early business, years he was active in illuminating engineering and published many scientific articles on it. He was treasurer of the Fabreeka Products Co. of Boston from 1919 until 1953.

From 1915 to 1918, he was manager of the Belgian Relief Fund in Boston and was decorated by the Belgian government.

He was author of many articles on economics.

He was one of the original members of the American Civil Liberties Union in 1920 and served on the national committee for a number of years. He also served for several years as treasurer and vice-president of the New England Anti-Vivisection Society.

He was a member of the Tavern Club.

He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Benjamin M. Ellis, and a sister, Mrs. Redington Fiske, both of Boston.

9217