Dear Bob,

The last few months have disappeared very quickly and I have intended writing to you for some time now. This is just a short note as I need to get the attached copies of letters in the post to you.

First of all a useful correspondence has developed between John Allen and myself. He addressed us on North Sea Oil at Cambridge. His letters have sparked off a lot of indepth discussion in our study group here and I thought you would be interested and might like to add your views and experience. This is the first time that we are really getting down to a critical look at certain issues. This is not for publication at present.

A Commission of Inquiry into Taxation in R.S.A. has been set up and I have sent the attached letter to them. Here again you might like to comment. You may use this letter or extracts from it if you wish to. Four other members of our group will also be submitting individual letters.

Kindest regards,

Godfrey Dunkley.

Objectives: (Interim)

- 1 To study and research the incentive and disincentive effects of modern taxation on production and the relations of men in society.
- 2 To study the natural laws governing the relations between men in society

Interim Chairman: G.R.A. Dunkley
