Dear Bill:

Received your paper on Communications Media. We'll probably refer to it in our next CGO Issue.

Members of the HG Foundation felt that Equal Rights was a special organ of the Foundation and did not want to see it go. People do want to hold onto their own things, so merging everything into one grand effort is not easy. I'm not even convinced it's better than a lot of decentralized efforts.

Re placing an ad: If your foundation does it, it seems to me the best thing would be to ask people to reply to you. You can then forward inquiries to the appropriate destination.

About those 125,000 HG School graduates. That was from 1932 to 1968, so the list is not very reliable today. Many are dead, and very many have moved, left no address. Many more have forgotten all about it. Some may still be mildly interested. A few are very interested - and those are the people who are still with us.

Sincerely,

Robert Clancy
