BREAD AND CIRCUSES

School slavery until age 16; forced learning of subjects unneeded for a career, and otherwise unwanted; unscientific teaching methods; dishonest teaching of economics, history, civics; need for two family paychecks; inability to marry when biologically and emotionally ready, and work when able and willing, at any age, is criminal. Two-thirds of Danes marry by age 15, and others live together. Girls in ancient Israel married about age 14, boys 17. Blackstone: "No human laws are of any validity if contrary to the laws of nature." Teen-age pregnancies are natural. (THE TWELVE-YEAR SENTENCE, SCHOOLING FOR WHAT?, DESCHOOLING SOCIETY)

Pseudo democracies, autocracies (Freedom House: 42 % of world population live under repressive governments), monopolized earth (3 % own western hemisphere), economies, professions, trades; national debts, wars, terrorism, joblessness, homelessness (400 million; U. S., 1 million), thievery, rape, murder (U. S., a major crime every two seconds), prostitution (poverty-induced rape), vandalism, arson, unphilosophic, biased, unaffordable adversary law, prisons, capital punishment (U. S. alone in developed free world), grossly inadequate social services and health care (U. S., half see no dentist, others sorely neglected) are unnatural. Tenet of the ancient Wicca: "Do as you will, so you injure no other." (Ethical basis of law) SOCIAL STATICS: "Every man has freedom to do all that he wills, provided he infringes not the equal freedom of any other man. ... Given a race of beings having like claims to pursue the objects of their desires; given a world adapted to the gratification of those desires... and it unavoidably follows that they have equal rights to the use of this world." OUR ENEMY, THE STATE: COMMON SENSE: "'the design and end of government (is) freedom and security,'" The State, on the other hand, "'invariably had its origin in conquest and confiscation. ... the sole invariable characteristic of the State is the economic exploitation of one class by another'... government secures (natural) rights... by strictly negative intervention, making justice costless and easy of access;... one sees no way to differentiate the activities of (the State's) founders, administrators and beneficiaries from those of a professional-criminal class. ... The State is... the organization of the political means" - the uncompensated appropriation of the wealth of others. The first concern of the State is with its policy of land-tenure. "If this system were broken up, obviously the reason for the State's existence would disappear, and the State itself would disappear with it. ... no publicist has anything to say about the State system of land-tenure."...We have a judicial review and interpretation, whereby "anything may be made mean anything;"

Executive Order 11490 permits president ANYTHING in self-declared "emergency." THE RICH AND THE SUPER-RICH: 91 % of business men, in a survey, admitted to crimes for which they could legally have been imprisoned, but weren't. Compared to big business crime, "organized crime" is said to be a "pushcart operation." A single case of price fixing, during its tenure, cost the public more than all street crime. (Yet criminals, largely forced by unemployment - the major crime - into thievery, fill our prisons; who, according to theoretical Moslem ethics, would not be punished, if no jobs were available by which they could support themselves. All conquerors, colonial and neocolonial powers, monopolists, and those who vote them favors are wholesale thieves, starvationists, torturers - 98 countries, including the U. S. - and killers. Cousteau documentary - "Snowstorm in the Jungle" - describes the multibillion-dollar cocaine market in the Peruvian rainforest, which will appear on TV. A producer: "We are responding to the attack of imperialism in South America. If a lot of people here are going to die because of imperialistic policies, a lot of people there are going to die because of cocaine. This is war." Severely addicted Peruvians are subjected to radical neurosurgery, cutting out the brain's pleasure center. 5,000 in U. S. try cocaine for the first time every day. (THE COCAINE SOCIETY, CRY OF THE PEOPLE, THE GREAT FEAR IN LATIN AMERICA, Carlton Beal's works) Ending 700 U. S. interventions and impoverishments would cut drug supply; a just U. S. economy would dry up demand.

All sites are assessed less than their unearned rental value - capitalization of unassessed portion, enhanced by speculation on growth, creating sales prices. These unethical costs force mass unemployment, homelessness, cramped, noisy, dangerous living space. Bidding for overpriced sites absorbs production, over a base wage for each skill, improvements thus going to land-holders; all together, facilitating monopoly, neocolonialism, crime, dissipation. Lack of jobs assures volunteers for every menace and depravity. FREE LAND IS THE BASIS FOR ALL REFORM.

As for adopting the ways the state has provided for remedying the evil, I know of no such ways. - Thoreau

WHAT IF: They held a war, and no one came; they refused to assess full ground rent, to replace taxes on production, and could not be reelected; the unemployed and homeless moved onto idle land, and began to farm it, as thousands in Italy and India recently did, and no one would evict them (Indira Gandhi admitted their ethical right); armed forces, worldwide, demanded land, as some Gallic allies successfully did, of their Roman captain; they ordered sales of tax-delinquent property, and none would buy; authorized prisons, and none would design or build them, arrest or guard their intended tenants; authorized executions, and none would perform or witness an execution; they started colonial or neocolonial wars (official or unofficial), and draftees fled the country, or simply refused to report; troops refused to attack, or deserted; pilots dropped their bombs before reaching targets; Intelligence refused to decode messages (SOLDIERS IN REVOLT); troops even joined the other side, as some did in our Mexican War; troops refused to shoot down prisoners, protesting inhuman treatment; or peaceful strikers, or other demonstrators (the French and Russian Revolutions were on when troops refused to fire upon the people); arms plants were authorized, but none would design, build or operate them (knowing that obliteration was already possible); nuclear power was authorized, but none would design, build or operate plants, mine uranium, serve as "jumper" during maintenance and breakdowns; transport the wastes, reprocess, bury or guard them, or the polluted, quarantined plants; they authorized chemical and biological warfare weapons, pesticides and other chemicals, dangerous to humans, animals, plants, food or the environment - with no safe conversion - and none would design, build or operate plants, or use their products, if any; they authorized animal experiments unapproved by humane societies, and none would participate; schools other than voluntary learning webs were created, and none attended? All this could happen, with surplus jobs, made available through nominally priced sites, created by ethical full ground rent assessment, which absorbs the "unearned increment" - now unassessed portion - the basis of sale price.

ON BOARD THE GOOD SHIP EARTH: "the nations stand...so divided...that the good ship EARTH is like a captainless vessel." Numerous means of saving and replacing natural resources are cited, many now in use elsewhere. Dire warnings are given about current farming, mining, timbering, manufacturing and military policies, and their threat of early shortages and other disasters. (DEATH OF TOMORROW, MISSILE ENVY) "An ameba is all stomach. 80 % of our intellectual activities today are monopolized by the demands of hunger. Man has again become an embodied stomach - the most awful of tragedies. ...suppose...nations (which) control (natural resources) either allow them to be exploited by private owners or refuse their product to the world on just terms, or take too much for themselves, or allow the priceless heritage of all the people of the earth to be wasted?...Will there not be need of a federation of the world to deal with these problems... (The principle of the Henry George School is that) the EARTH is in justice common property, and that (ground) rent is the wedge that separates the privileged from the (deprived). The triumph of this school of thought would at once establish a federation of the world, and could not fail to lead to a listing of our world properties (an expanded "Doomsday Book"), a division of our natural resources on lines of recognized principles, and some control body with power to care for the common property of the race, and administer it for the common good. Universal Peace! Universal Disarmament! Universal Good Will! These can come only with universal prosperity and universal understanding. When they come, patriotism in its present sense, will have died. Fraternity will have taken its place. Tennyson: 'Till the war-drums throb'd no longer, and the battle-flags were furl'd In the Parliament of man, the federation of the World!' The equalization of rights to land can be accomplished (by)...an annual tax...equal to the... rental value of the land, exclusive of improvements. ...all reason for (taxes on labor) would disappear" Cooperative housekeeping, factories and farms would develop. ... "society, being freed from the fear of want, will rapidly lose that all-pervading greed which is another phase of fear."

We can safely end foreign interventions; trade with all; replace taxes with full ground rent assessments; urge it on others; end monopoly favors, thus monopolies; decide wages and fees by mutual agreement; end sumptuary laws; cancel national debt; limit military to maintenance; election cost to free media time and space; decide disputes by mediation, with restitution in money - detention only for the emotionally dangerous; scientifically conserve energy, resources, the environment; provide adequate social services, worldwide, and so civilize today, and save a future for the earth and its peoples.
